LOUISVILLE, KENTUCKY, THURSDAY, JANUARY 21, 1864.

QUISVILLEJGURNAL PRENTICE, HENDERSON, & OSBORNE. JOURNAL OFFICE BUILDING, Green street, between Third and Fourth.

Rev. Samuel Longden, agent of the Western Seamen's Friend Society, is now in and subsequent adventures, is published in this city, and expects to call upon all philan- the Richmond Enquirer: thropic citizens for the purpose of soliciting donations to aid this successful benevolent institution in carrying out its noble plan of exerting its direct religious agencies for the moral and spiritual improvement and salvation of he five hundred thousand seamen and boatmen now affoat upon our vessels of commerce

The enterprise is one which cannot fail to call forth the prayers and elicit the substantial aid of all good citizens, especially of Christian people, inasmuch as the work of the Bible Tract and Missionary Society may be most successfully carried on through this cause, open to the co-operation of Christian people of all denominations. All our large cities are thus receiving incalcuable moral benefit, especially as the efforts of this Society are directed to the spiritual and intellectual welfare of a class of people about our wharves and levees, partially, if not wholly, neglected by every other department of Christian philanthropy.

Mr. Longden hopes to receive the cordial co-operation of all Christian people in his labor here in behalf of this heaven-favored cause.

ANOTHER LADY IN THE RANKS .- A few days ago, says the Wheeling Register, eight or ten Confederate prisoners were captured by Gen. Sullivan's men and brought to Harper's Ferry. They were placed in the guardhouse, and nothing more was thought about them until Wednesday last, when a guard gave it as his opinion that one of the inmates of the guard-house was a female. The story proved to be correct, and the gay young Miss was removed from the prison. She was givea a complete outfit of ladies' clothing and eleazed, when she appeared in the streets as belle of the town. She is about sixteen eighteen years of age, and of rather eposessing appearance. Upon inquiry it was ascertained that her parents lived but two or three miles from Harper's Ferry, and were quite wealthy. Soon after the war began her lover joined the Confederates and left for Dixie. This was too much for her to endure, and she resolved to follow him. She stole through the lines, sought out the regiment, and joined the same company in which her dearest friend had enlisted. So well had she disguised herself that he did not recognize her, and they drilled together several days before she made herself known. She was persuaded to return home, but soon went back to the regiment again. For the past year the love-sick girl has been going to and fro, until

There are many needed also in the Mississippi squadron, both as permanent surgeons and as transient assistants. For the latter class the limit may be extended to thirty years. Persons desirous of entering the latter department of the service may be examined at any time by application to Surn Shirley, at Cairo.

There is little or no exposure to the inclemencies of the weather, a good degree of regularity and comfort attainable in personal habits, nearly all the conveniences and means at hand of a settled practice, and a ood library of medical books available, with which they may employ their abundant leisure in a further prosecution of their professional education.

JOHN MORGAN'S ESCAPE. IS OWN ACCOUNT—HOW HE GOT OUT OF THE PENITENTIARY—CROSSED THE OHIO—GOT

THROUGH OUR LINES, &C., &C. General John Morgan was honored with an vation on the 7th, on his arrival at the rebel apital. The following highly interesting account of his escape from the Ohio penitentiary,

Their bedsteads were small iron stools, fasned to the wall with hinges. They could be hooked up or allowed to stand on the floor, hile Hockersmith was down under the floo in my room sick," and immediately pulle document out of his pocket and said to him: Here is a memorial I have drawn up to for-

The fellow, who perhaps could not read, eing highly flattered at the General's condescension, took it and very gravely looked at it for several moments before he vouchsafed any reply. Then, handing it back, he expressed himself highly pleased with it. In the meantime Hockersmith had been signalled and came , professing to feel "very unwell." This named was the most difficult and dangerous stacle in their progress, because there was betelling at what time he would enter during day, and at night he came regularly every were quietly sleeping, and frequently after he had completed his rounds he would slip back in the dark, with a pair of India rubber shoes t, to listen at their cells if anything was bing cn. The General says that he would most invariably know of his presence by a ritain magnetic shudder which it would pro-nee; but, for fear that this acute sensibility night sometimes fail him, he broke up smal hem before the cell door, which would always

Everything was now ready to begin the work; so about the latter part of October they began to bore. All were busy—one making ope ladder by tearing and twisting up strips bedtick, another making bowie knives, and another twisting up towers. They labored berseveringly for several days, and after bor-ing through nine inches of cement and nine icknesses of brick placed edgewise they be-an to wender when they should reach the loft earth. Suddenly a brick fell through. What could this mean? What infernal cham-er had they reached? It was immediately ered, and to their great astonishment and it proved to be an air-chamber extending whole length of the row of cells. Here is an unexpected interposition in their farm. Hitherto they had been obliged to coney had room enough for all they could dig. ngles with this air-chamber, to get through be foundation; and day after day they bored, ay after day the blocks of granite were reved, and still the work before them seemed

t announced the fulfilment of their labors, nd, if Providence would only continue its faor, they would soon be free. This was the corning of the 26th day of November, 1863. The next night, at 12 o'clock, was determined as the hour at which they would attempt eir liberty. Each moment that intervened candidates who may apply for admission, and that it will continue in session for six weeks or two months. There is a large demand at dawned bright and beautiful. The evening ame, and clouds began to gather. How they prayed for them to increase. If rain should only begin, their chances of detection would be greatly lessened. While these thoughts were passing through their minds, the keeper entered with a letter for Gen. Morgan. He opened it, and what was his surprise, and I may say wonder, to find it from a poor Irish women of his acquaintance in Kentucky, com-mencing, "My dear Ginral, I feel certain you are going to try to git out of prison, but for your sake don't you try it, my dear Ginral. You will only be taken prisoner agin, and made to suffer more than you do now."

The letter then went on to speak of his kindess to the poor when he lived at Lexington, and concluded by again exhorting him to trust in God and wait his time. What could this mean? No human being on the outside had been informed of his intention to escape, and yet, just as all things were ready for him to winchester, Ky., advising him not to "try it." This letter had passed through the exam-ining office of Gen. Mason, and then through General and Colonel Dick Morgan to change cells. The hour approached for them to be locked up. They changed coats, and each stood at the other's cell door, with his back exposed, and pretended to be engaged in making up their beds. As the turnkey entered they "turned in" and pulled their doors shut. Six, eight, ten o'clock came. How each pulse throbbed as they quietly awaited the approach of twelve. It came—the sentinel passed his round—all well. After waiting a the signal was given, all quietly slipped down into the air-chamber, first stuffing their flan-nel shirts and placing them in bed as they were accustomed to lie. As they moved qui-etly along through the dark recess to the terminus where they were to emerge from the earth, the General prepared to light a match. As the lurid glare fell upon their countenances men who had resolved to be free. They were armed with bowie knives made out of caseknives. Life, in their condition, was scarcely arrived. Suppose, as they emerged from the ground, that the dog should give the alarm— But few moments were spent in this kind of pprehension. The hour had arrived, and yet they came. Fortunately—yes, providentially—the night had suddenly grown dark and rainy; the dogs had retired to their kennels, and the sentinels had taken refuge under shelter. The inner wall, by the aid of the rope ladder, was soon scaled, and now the outer one had to be attempted. Capt. Taylor (who, by the way, is a nephew of old Zack), being a very active man, by the assistance of his comrades reached the top of the gate, and was enabled to get the rope over the wall. When the top was gained they found a rope, extending all around, which the General immediately cut, as he suspected it might lead into the Warden's room. This turned out to be correct. They then entered the sentry-box on the wall, and changed their clothes, and let themselves down the wall. In sliding down, the General skinned his hand very badly, and all were more or less bruised. Once down, they separated, Taylor and Shelton going one way, Hockersmith, Bennett, and McGee another, and Gen. M. and Capt. Hines proceeding immediately toward the depot.

The General had, by paying $15 in gold, succeeded in obtaining a paper which informed him of the schedule time of the different state. by hurrying he could reach the down train for Cincinnati. He got there just as the train was moving off. He at once looked on to see if there were any soldiers on board, and, espying a Union officer, he boldly walked up and took a seat beside him. He remarked to him that, "as the night is damp and chilly, perhaps be would join him in a drink." He lid so, and the party soon became very agree-ible to each other. The cars, in crossing the Scioto, have to pass within a short distance of the penitentiary. As they passed, the officer remarked, "There's the hotel at which Morgan and his officers are spending their lessure." "Yes," replied the General, "and I hope he will make up his mind to board there during the balance of the war, for he is a great nuisance." When the train reached Xenia, it was detained by some accident more than an hour. Imagine his anxiety, as soldier after soldier would pass through the train, for fear that when the sentinel passed

While the officiating clergyman was in the midst of a most interesting discussion, an old lady among the congregation arose and clapped her hands and exclaimed:

'Merciful Father, if I had one more feather in my wing of faith, I would fly to glory!' The worthy gentleman, thus interrupted, immediately replied: 'Good Lord, stick it in and let her go; she's but a trouble here.' That quietted the old lady.''

The aggregate debt of the loyal States does and exceed one hundred and sixty millions.

The train, having been detained at Xenia, was running very rapidly to make up the time. It was already past 6 o'clock. The General said to Capt. Hines, "It is after six; if we go to the depot we are dead men. Now or never." They went to the rear and put on the brakes.

"Jump, Hines!" Off he went, and fell heels over head in the mud. Another severe turn of the brake, and the General jumped. He was more successful, and lighted on his feet. There were some soldiers near, who remarked "What in the h — I do you mean by jumping off the cars here?" The General replied, "what in the d — I is the use of my going into"

The last he saw of his poor fellows on the opposite side they were disappearing up the river bank, fired upon by a whole regiment of Yankees. By this time it was dark and also raining. He knew that a perfect cordon of pickets would surround the foot of the mountain, and if he remained there until morning he would be lost. So he de-termined to run the gauntlet at once, and commenced to descend. As he neared the sonal contact with a picket. His first impulse was to kill him, but finding him asleep he determined to let him sleep on. He made his way to the house of a Union man that he knew lived near there, and went, up and passed himself off as Captain Quartermaster of Hunt's regiment, who was on the way to Athens, Tenn., to procure supplies of sugar and coffee for the Union people of the country. The lady, who appeared to be asleep while this interview was taking place, jumped out of bed in her night clothes, and said: "Thank God for that, for we aint seen any rale coffee up here for God knows how seen any rale coffee up here for God knows how long!" After he had crossed Okey's river, and got down into Middle Tennessee, he found it almost impossible to avoid recognition. At one time he pessed some poor women, and one of them commenced clapping her hands, and said, "Oh, I know who that is; I know who that is!" but, catching herself, she stopped short, and passed on with her companions. The General says that his escape was made entirely without the assistance of any one on the outside, and, so far as he knows, without their knowledge of his intention; that the an-nouncement of his arrival at Toronto was scene was presented which can never be one of those fortuitous coincidences that can orgotten. DEATH FROM FREEZING—A Night of Horcor.—During the prevalence of such a storm us that of Thursday last, it would seem almost neredible that any one should venture from home, not even in the case of the most urgent accessity. Very fortunately, we think, but ew had the hardihood to venture out, and to his fact may be attributed the small list of is fact may be attributed the small list casualties in this county that happily attended the fearful visitation. Would that we were spared the task of recording even one instance of such suffering and horror as that which is becomes our painful duty to perform.

On the morning of that memorable Thurs day, two girls, a Miss Paine and Miss Lovejoy ownship, some fourteen miles from Morris as we gather the particulars, to do some tra-ding at the stores. They succeeded in reach-ing Morrison without difficulty, and after com-pleting their purchases started late in the afteror, and against the earnest remonstrances a number of citizens here, for their homes Their course being a southwesterly dire Their course being a southwesterly direction, they were, of course, exposed to the keenest severities of the storm. However, they succeeded in getting within some three miles of home, when they lost their road, and soon became enveloped in a snow drift, from which, in the darkness, they found it impossible to extricate themselves.

Young Lovejoy got out of the sleigh, and, after floundering around for a considerable time in the drifted snow, succeeded, with the aid of Miss Paine, in unhitching the horses and getting them turned round to the sleigh, to which they secured them. The three then seated themselves in the sleigh, wrapped whatever they had of blankets or robes about whatever they had of blankets or robes about them, and there in the "waste of wilderness," amid the snow and cold and darkness, unprotected from the chilling blasts of the merciles storm, they resolved to pass that wild winter ight. How they survived the rigors of that ong, perilous night—their feelings and suferings, we leave to the imagination of the eader. That they could live to behold the got of morning seems indeed miraculous. The elder of the girls, Miss Paine, about sixteen years of age, and about two years the senior of Miss Lovejoy, says that she did not permit herself to go to sleep, and frequently aroused the others when being overcome by cowsiness, and endeavored to keep them rub r becoming completely torpid. As so was light in the morning young Lovej left the girls in the sleigh, to endeavor to had some house and procure assistance. After walking, or rather dragging himself for about two miles, he reached the house of Mr. B F. Hubbard, in the most pitiable condition also his feet and legs frozen nearly to the knees, and so benumbed and exhausted that it was with difficulty he related his stor. Mr. Hubbard immediately hitched up h operative and void. The General also appropriate and void. The General also appropriate and void. The General also appropriate are also brought to his house in as short a time as possible, but not before becoming himself considerably bitten by the frost—freezing his ears, nose, and part of his fingers. INHUMANITY TO CHILDREN .- We have just which seems almost unparalleled in the annals of crime. As the story goes, this man has been for some time living in the mo t des an infant child and a girl five years of age, and went to a neighbor's house about half a mile distant. As they never returned, it seems dren to freeze to death. Some time during the night or morning, the little girl, barefooted and almost naked, started across the fields n pursuit of her inhuman parents, and after wandering along the crusted snow, the block trickling from her feet at every step, she fell down exhausted in a corner of the field, where neighbor found her sometime afterwards in alled in, when it was ascertained that both children were in a dangerous condition, and are probably dead by this time. Lavere pleads that he left his place to get something to eat, but the neighbors deny this.

A very severe fight ensued, which lasted about an hour, in which our regiment killed eight rebels upon the field and wounded a considerable manner without heart to the considerable manner with the considerable mann able number, without losing a man killed an only three slightly wounded. Thirty-eig three officers, but they were so closely press by our cavalry that they were compelled C. Evans, who was at that time in command (Colonel Price being detained on business for the regiment), the remainder of the regiment the regiment, the remainder of the regiment succeeded by a flank movement in making their escape. The only wonder is that they were not all killed or captured by such overpowering numbers. Our regiment went into camp upon Wallon's Ridge, being separated into two battalions, one under command of Col. S. W. Price, and the other under Major J. E. Hoskins, where we remained quarking and Hoskins, where we remained guarding and re-pairing the road until Nov. 22d, when we were ordered to report to Brig. Gen. Morgan, 1si b. igade, 2d division, 14th army corps, for duty. Col. Price with his usual promptness reached the command, four miles above Chattanoog on the north side of the Tennessee, on the evening of the same day, where we remain for two days. On the morning of the 24th at 2 o'clock, two brigades of Maj. Gen. Sher man's command commenced crossing the river and by daylight were safely entrenched, hav-ing captured the rebel pickets without the firing of a gun. The 2d division (14th army corps), commanded by Brig. Gen. Dayis, commenced crossing the river in the afternoon, the 21st Kentucky being in the advance. That night our regiment was placed on picket near the base of Mission Ridge, within a very short distance of the rebel pickets, where they remained during the next day exposed to shot and shell from both, our own guns and those of the rebels almost constantly passing over mauga Creek near its mouth. We moved on in the direction of Chickamauga Station, the 21st Kentucky in the advance. About two miles before reaching the station they were thrown out as skirmishers, forcing back the enemy, until they reached a point near Chicksmauga Station, where they were stoutly resisted by a brigade of Kentucky rebels, under command of Brigadier-General Joseph H. Lewis, of Glasgow, Kentucky Kentucky Federals met Kentucky rebels, as on a former occasion, at Stone River. The 21st Kentucky steadily pressed back the rebels. Kentucky steadily pressed back the rebels until within a short distance of the foot of the range of hills which they had fortified, where, being protected by the thick growth of timber and their huts erected for winter quarters, their resistance became so stubborn as to check us, until being so much galled by the the door an effigy, with a rope laid significantly on the top. The Washington correspondent of the ference to the Federal five-twenties, shown Cincinnati Commercial says:

The President received a letter from General of bankers, despite the derangement of his Grant, a few days ago, fully endorsing the late message and proclamation. The General is with Mr. Lincoln on all measures yet taken for the suppression of the rebellion. It can also be stated on the authority of the President that a letter was received at the White House, a few months since, from Gen. Grant, in which it is stated that the emancipation proclamation and the arming of the negroes were the two deadliest blows yet aimed at the rebellion. In the same letter the General says he is not able to obtain as many negroes as he desires, because the rebels run them off "possess themselves in patience." One into the interior, but he hoped to be able to do so when he got further into the enemy's country. An extract from this letter was ac-tually incorporated verbatim by Mr. Lincoln into his celebrated letter to the Springfield, Illinois, Union Convention. The New York Herald will be slow to believe these facts, but if it will make the proper inquiry it will ascertain the truth, that it is supporting an out abolition candidate for the next

All this is interesting merely as showing that the followers of Mr. Lincoln have become a little jealous of General Grant, and are determined, if possible, to hold him politically abreast with their own favorite. It is indeed rather difficult not to see in this manifestation some trace of the hand of their favorite himself. "Honest Old Abe," like Fag in THE RIVALS, is "devilish sly!"

> Governor for approval. Inspector-General Lindsey has answered the inquiry of the Legislature as to the estimated cost of arming, equipping, and maintaining in the field for one year a force of five thousand troops for State defence. The estimate is for five regiments of mounted infantry, each one thousand strong, as he thinks only such troops, unencumbered with either infantry or artillery, can be adequate for protection against guerrilla raids. Gen. Lindsey has followed the plan of United States organization in preference to that prescribed by our State law, thinking that hereafter the State might be repaid by the General Government, and the claim would be more susceptible of adjustment. His whole estimate is for mounted troops, which are the most expensive arm of the service, and should the Governor decide to have the force of mixed troops, the cost would be fully covered. He gives in detail all the items for one year's expenses with the fol-

ESCAPE OF TWELVE REBEL PRISONERS WHILE ON THEIR WAY TO CAMP CHASE-SOME OF THE OFFICERS ARRESTED IN THIS PLACE .- Our readers will remember the mention made by us last week of the escape of rebel prisoners at Seymour, Ind., and the subsequent arrest of Capt. Perkins, one of the party, in this city. At that time we were led to believe that there were only six who escaped, but it now transpires that twelve of them got away.

Yesterday the Provost Marshal received information of the presence of two very suspicious individuals in our city, boarding at the house of Mrs. Lightcap, on Walnut street. The men were arrested and brought before Major Fitch, when it was discovered that they were two rebel officers-Capt. Chas. H. Martin and Lieut. J. C. Chaffin-and belonged to the party that escaped at Seymour. The prisoners state that they were changed to box cars at Seymour, and the one in which they were placed had a hole in the bottom of it, which was covered by a plank. During the time they were waiting for the arrival of the Ohio and Mississippi train (some two or three hours), the guard placed over the prisoners in this car lay down and fell asleep, believing them to be perfectly secure, as the doors were locked and guards on the outside. The prisoners then conceived the idea of lifting the plank and making their escape, which eight of them succeeded in doing, and, after travelling to the first station, took the Jeffersonville train and came to this city. They changed their clothing immediately upon arriving here, and, as above stated, took boarding with Mrs. Lightcap, telling her that they were from Shelbyville. One of Mrs. Lightcap's daughters, susecting that they were rebels, cautioned them not to give utterance to any treasonable lan-

Mrs. Lightcap and three of her daughters were arrested and brought before the Provost Marshal, but were afterwards permitted to return to their home, and a guard stationed at their house. Mrs. Stewart, who lives on Third street, was suspected of having concealed the uniforms of the officers, and her house was searched, but nothing was discovered. It seems, however, that the lady acknowledged that she was a rebel, and expressed herself in a very disloyal manner, which led the military authorities to place her under guard.

The prisoners were under charge of Capt. Denny, and numbered fifty-six. They left this place on the 15th inst., and the Captain says that the escape of the eight prisoners was not discovered until they were about to leave Seymour, and that they got away by lying on the floor and covering themselves up with their blankets, after which they crawled through the hole in the bottom of the car. The guard denies that he fell asleep, and had no knowledge of their having got away until he lifted the blanket to awake them to take the train for Cincinnati, when he discovered nothing but the hole left.

When they arrived at Columbus, the Capout an hour to get ambulances. When he returned and took the prisoners out, he discovered that four others had made their escape He thinks they jumped through the window of the water-closet, but is not certain that Columbus. The Captain had only twelve guards with him, and says that they were not sufficient to guard fifty-six prisoners, and the three men who were arrested here confirm the Captain's belief.

The two rebel officers will be examined the Provost Marshal this morning, together with Mrs. Lightcap and Mrs. Stewart. THE FOURTH AND SIXTH KENTUCKY CAV-ALRY.—The 4th and 6th Kentucky cavalry part of Watkins's Kentucky brigade, arrived yesterday from Rossville, Georgia, having reenlisted as veterans. The 4th, though decimated by disease and frequent skirmishes and fights, numbers about 300 war-worn veterans. The 6th, a regiment notorious for its brilliant dashes, its splendid drill and efficiency, is the largest veteran regiment that has vet been mustered, numbering, as we understand, about 550 men. The 5th Kentucky, belonging to the same brigade, have also commenced the noble work, and may be expected soon. It certainly behooves the people of Kentucky to welcome with honors, so richly merited, these gallant heroes, who are the first of the State to respond to the call for veterans. No body of men, in the Army of the Cumberland or elsewhere, have won more golden opinions from superiors for meritorious services. And now that they have reaffirmed that unfaltering loyalty, the noble characteristic of Kentucky's sons, it certainly becomes us as citizens to show by every possible demonstration, that, in their masterly efforts to restore our government to its original status, they have our best wishes, our earnest hopes, and our heartfelt prayers.

We learn that Col. Watkins, who is now in the city, will rendezvous his brigade at Lexington, at the expiration of the furloughs now being given to the men under the directions lajors Welling and Fidler, commanding To regiments.

We take occasion to caution the young ladies of Kentucky, although the officers of the 4th and 6th are veteran warriors, that ere is scarcely one of them married. We mean by cautioning Kentucky's fair daughters to imply that it behooves them to reward these gallant and meritorious officers with far more acceptable and richer honors than barbecues, balls, showy demonstrations.

though large, was by no means commensurate with the merits of the charming lady whose name was the leading feature of the bill. Miss Jones is one of the most agreeable actresses on the stage. Her experience in the profession since she last appeared here hasadde i to her capacity as well as to the charms of her acting. Always modest and subdued, but full of feeling and graceful in its expression, she delights us as much by the sweetness of her elecution as by the perfect ease and repose of her manners. She pleases alike the most refined and intellectual of her audience, and by the power of her genius compels the admiration of the humblest. We advise all lovers of good acting, and all who appreciate taste and elegance in the histrionic art, to visit the theatre frequently during the present engage-

It will be seen by reference to the spirited debate sprung up in the lower house of the General Assembly, yesterday, upon the bill authorizing the enlistment of five thouand Kentucky troops for the defence of the wealth against future rebel incur-A number of very able speeches were nade both in favor of and against the various nendments proposed, but the sentiment in vor of the general merits of the bill was alfrom the Second District of this city, conluded the discussion, favoring the passage of the bill, and in his peroration paying a glow-

It seems that the Doctor had entered into correspondence with his friends in Dixie, and one of the letters was intercepted and forwarded to the military authorities in this place. He is confined in the Military Prison.

Forty-three deserters arrived from Wash ngton, and will be forwarded to Nashville. One hundred and eighty-nine recruits were received from Columbus, and twelve from St. Louis.

Fifty-seven convalescents, from differen oints, reported for duty yesterday. The 5th Connecticut, 75th Pennsylvania and 58th New York regiments were paid off n cur city yesterday, and left for their homes with bright and happy hearts, their war-worn banners proudly attesting their gallantry. They have all re-enlisted. The gallant 17th Ohio arrived yesterday, and, we understand, will be paid off here before leaving for home. They have done ex- Green.

A soldier was arrested yesterday for acting as detective, and, after a hearing before the Provost Marshal, was sentenced to ten days' hard labor with ball and chain.

Eight deserters were sent to Nashville yes terday, and five to Cairo. John Curtis was robbed of $250 at the Planter's Hotel, on Tuesday night, by a man named Donnell. He has not been arrested.

Major B. B. Smith, reputed to be of Mor gan's command, was arrested in the city yesterday. He claims to be a cotton speculator, but he was engaged, it seems, in a less profitable speculation when arrested. He is strongly suspected of being a rebel spy. We are informed that a steamboat arrived at our levee yerterday from Nashville, having cut her way through the ice. The Jeffersonville ferryboat made one trip yesterday, but she was unable to make the second. Parties are crossing in skiffs.

The ferryboat at New Albany is making regular, but slow, trips. The regular semi-monthly meeting of the General Council will take place at the usual hour this evening.

A joint resolution which, under the rules, lies over one day, was offered in the Legislature yesterday postponing the election of a United States Senator indefinitely. The election was set for to-day, and the resolution will

TROOPS GOING TO THE FIELD -OUR ARMY Not Depleted. - The general impression, says the New York Post, that the furloughing of our veteran regiments which have re-enlisted for the war is causing a depletion of the ranks of our armies is confidently denied in official quarters. The number of recruits and veteran volunteers entering the service, and now going forward to the field, is understood to equal if not exceed that of the soldiers returning. It appears from the records in the United States Quartermaster's Department in New York city that the number of recruits provided with transportation to the various points on the coast and in Virginia, where tain left the prisoners in the cars, and was our armies are stationed, averages from three to five thousand each week. One half of these go by rail and the other half by water. They include the men enlisted in the eastern part of the State of New York and part of the volunteers of New England. As the regithey did not get away between Cincinnati and ments returning comprise only one to two hundred men each, not less than twenty of these organizations belonging to the district of country named must come home each week to make the number of men leaving the army the same-equal to the number joining it; and so many regiments do not return. Bethe regiments coming home-particularly those which were enlisted here-leave consid-> much reduced as they seem to be. In the course of a few weeks the grand their ranks recruited, will begin. Enlistments, which are now numerous and increasing, will be likely to give many of them quite their original complement of one thousand

How to Discover Small Pox in its EARLY STAGE.—The Eclectic Journal, in an article on small-pox, admonishes physicians not to be hasty in passing their opinion that any eruptive disorder is that loathsome disease until they prove the following diagnostic symptom: Now we offer this secret to the profession so soon as the eruptions appear, and by pressure with the point of the finger may be distinctly felt the small, hard substance, precisely as if a small, fine shot had been placed under the cuticle of the skin. This peculiar appearance belongs to no other eruptive disease. We have applied the term secret here; for while is and has been known to a few physicians it is not mentioned in any of the standard authorities, nor does the writer claim the credit of the discovery. After this, all works apon practice will add this unfailing diagnos

THE GREAT SPIRITUAL SENSATION.—The excitement regarding the mysterious exhibitions of the Davenport Boys increases daily. Last night Masonic Temple was crowded at an early hour, and a number of persons were unable to procure seats. It would be useless for us to describe their wonderful manifestations, for those who have not witnessed them would be inclined to discredit the statements. We can only advise our readers to go and see for themselves, and be convinced of their mysterious power. Tickets may be obtained at the music store of Tripp & Cragg.

Wood's THEATRE.—We are pleased to see that our citizens appreciate the great talent of Mr. J. Wilkes Booth, the great tragedian, whose name has become illustrious with the American people. We hope that all of our theatre-goers will avail themselves of this optter of our Frankfort correspondent that a portunity to witness one of the greatest actors of the age. A SCOTCHMAN AMONG THE GHOSTS-Extra A SCOTCHMAN AMONG THE GHOSTS—Extra ordinary Revelations—Conversation with the Dead.—A startling publication has just comunder our notice. A gentleman of wealth and business experience in Glasgow, who signs himself "J. B.", has published, for private circulation, what professes to be an unvarnished narrative of facts in regard to compare the professes of the startly world. varnished narrative of facts in regard to communications he has had with the spirit world. He has, according to his own solemn affirmation, conversed, either personally or through a "medium," with the avowed spirits of Jesse McPherson, Lord Clyde, the late Duke of Hamilton, Mary Queen of Scots, "Stonewall" Jackson, a late clergyman and physician, both eminent in Glasgow, and others whose initials represent prominent persons well known in the city, and now deceased. This gentleman was an unbeliever in "spiritualism" up till February last.

At that time having occasion to be in London, he attended a scance at the house of a well-known medium. He had not been seated at the table many minutes, by his own aced at the table many minutes, by his own account, when he heard the sound of rapid taps count, when he heard the sound of rapid taps along the floor, and ending in two or three smart raps beneath his hand. The spirit answered to the name of "Margaret," and brought the spirit of "J. B.'s" deceased mother. To prevent deception, he asked questions which no one else in the company could have answered—such as his own name, his mother's maiden name, and the place where she used to stay in Glasgow. These questions, he says, were all answered correctly.

At subsequent seances his unbelief was further shaken. He laid a carte de visite on the table, enclosed in an envelope, and the Christian name and surname of the person whose likeness it was were immediately rapped out.

likeness it was were immediately rapped out. Seven different times he asked the what number he was thinking of, and each time the correct number was given him. But it was not till similar phenomena began to show themselves in his own house, two of his faith in "spiritualism" was finally confirmed.

persons, with one remarkable exception. This is the case of the notorious Mwhose spirit, although still "in the body," has repeatedly made itself audible, under the town uncillor's table, to declare her guilt and he ever, that the spirits of the living can take an excursion while the body is asleep. We have also the spirit of a distinguished peer, who frankly tells us that he was in an elevated condition when he left the world not long in October, 1864; that the South will establish its independence, and that the Potomac will nounced himself at a seance in April last, and advised his son to pray to God, lead a life of advised his son to pray to God, lead a life of virtue, "and marry a decent, honest woman." The councillor appends to this paternal advice the following note: "N. B. As I have a dear wife already, this answer was malapropos." This is undobutedly the mildest thing that can be said of it. His mother's spirit is more instructive. She informs him that she spends have time "in playing and singing praying and into the spirit world; and still feels vexed, she says (possibly with a reference to the council-), "when she sees those she loves commit-

Jesus." "Here," adds the narrator, "the table began to tilt violently about, so I said, 'Would was rapped out smartly. I sang the 'Rat-catcher's Daughter,' and the table kept jump-ing and dancing in time to the tune." A spi = itualist, however, has suggested to "J. B." that probably it was another ghost that tilted up the table, and that his mother's spirit took its leave immediately after telling him to love Jesus. Indeed, "J. B." frankly tells us that it Han, & imp. Han, & Ches, Han, & Clay. & Ches, Han, & Ches, Ha would be ridiculous to suppose that his mother could set the table capering to such a profane song, for she was a "staid woman, of strong Calvinistic principles." It appears, however, that the spirits are fond of lively music; for, on the 30th of July last, the spirit of the councillor's wife's mother, in answer to the question "What do you do where you are?" replied, "I dance, sing, and pray;" and

One of my daughters ad her dress drawn round behind her chair. and one of my sons was drawn out, chair and all, suddenly from the table." Such are some of the revelations that are embodied in the cipal medium in the house, "likes eggs, and eats a good many." A spiritualist has explained to him that eating eggs adds to the quantity of phosphorus in the body, and that phosphorus in excess is a cause of the medium's power.

Tribune says: "A most terrible accident oc-curred at Reynolds's saw-mill, a mile north of this village, on the 7th inst. While a man, been employed in the mill four months, was engaged in edging boards with a buzz-saw, and, attempting to remove the edging, the saw caught in his sleeve, instantly severing his right arm, at the same time drawing him down upon the saw, almost severing his body at the breast, separating the great arteries, and killing him instantly. The real name of the deceased was Alonzo D. Lewis."

D. 1864, by Joshua Tevis, Esq., attorney for the United States for the District of Kentucky, who prosecutes hereinin behalf of the United States, against Lewis T. Neal, &c., viz:

Five thousand dollars in the hands of Chas Neal due by him to said Lewis T. Neal, alleging that said Lewis T. Neal has done the acts and committed the offences denounced in the 5 h and 6th sections of the act of Congress, approved the 17th July, 1882, that by reason thereof said money has become forfeited to the said United States, and being so forfeited the sum has been seized by the Marshal under the order of seizure of the District Attorney.

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the monition under the seal of said Court to me directed and delivered, I do hereby give public notice to all persons claiming said articles, or in any manner interested therein, that they be and-appear before the said District Court to be held at the city of Louisville, in and for said Eistrict.

UNITED STATES OF AMERIUA, 188. No. 172.

WHEREAS, a L'ibel of Information has been by the control of the United States, within and for the District Court of the United States, within and for the District of Kentucky, on the 15th day of January, A. D. 1864, by J. Tevis, Esquire, Attorney for the United States for the District of Kentucky, who prescutes herein, as well in behalf of the United States as of W. D. Gallagher, Surveyor of Customs, against I Rifle, I Double-barrel Shot Gun, 1 bay Shot, 1 package Gun Caps, 5 barrels of Ale, 1 box Fruit Cans, 3 boxes Tobacco Samples, and 1 bag Shot, alleging in substance that said goods and articles were seized on water, in the District of Kentucky, on the 23d and — days of November and December, A. D. 1863, as forfeited to the United States; that said articles were proceeding from the State of Kentucky to the State of Tennessee, in violation of the act of Congress and the proclamation of the President of the United States interdicting all commercial intercurse between the citizens and inhabitants of said State of Tennessee and the citizens and inhabitants of the rest of the United States, and against the regulations of the Treasury Department of the United States interdicting all commercial intercurse between the citizens and inhabitants of the rest of the United States, and against the regulations of the Treasury Department of the United States of America, and praying process against the same that the same may be condemned as forfeited as aforesaid.

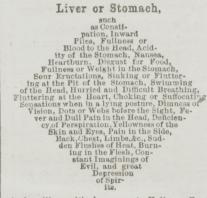

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the monition under the seal of said Court to me directed and delivered, I do hereby give public notice to all persons claiming said articles, or in any manner interested therein, that they be and appear before the said District Court, to be held at the city of Louisville, in and for said District, on the first day of tis next February term, the 16th day of February, A. CATARRH! CATARRH!

DR. SERLYE'S LIQUID CATARRH

EEMEDY—s sure ours for CATARRH or COLD

IN THE HEAD. It is easier to cure Catarrh than Denounption, and by curing the first we prevent the atter. Chousption, and by curing the first we prevent the latter.

The symptems of Catarrh, as they generally appear, are at first very slight. Persons find they have a cold, and find that they have frequent attacks, and are more sensitive to the changes of temperature. In this condition the Lose may be dry, or a slight discharge, thin and acrid, afterward becoming thick and addesive. As the discuss becomes chronic the discharges are increased in quantity and changes in quality; they are now thick and heavy, and are either got rid of by blowing the nose, or else they tall into the threat and are hawked or counfied off. The secretions are offensive, causing a bad breath; the voice is thick and nasul; the eyes are weak; the sense of smell is lessened or destroyed; desiness frequently takes place.

By the aid of the Liquid Catarrh Emmedy all these symptoms can be effectually removed.

Price of the Catarrh Remedy 32-sufficient for use one month, with full and clear directions, sent by express. Sold by all truggists.

Let us now turn to some of the revelations made on these occasions. It may be noted, first, that all purport to be made by deceased

By the way the spirits won't hear of such a thing as dying. They speak of the change as "leaving the world." The spirit of "Stonewall" Jackson also announces itself, and states that he is now an abolitionist; but intimates that New Orleans will be retaken by the Confederates next, month; that the way will and federates next month; that the war will end be its boundary line.

This would be encouraging news for the Southern sympathizers among us, were it not hat "J. B." has discovered, from experience, that no reliance is to be placed on the predic-tions of these rapping visitants. How much more is to be placed in their statements rearding the past and present, people can judge or themselves. The spirits are evidently a 'kittle' lot. The councillor's father anher time "in playing and singing, praying and dancing;" that, though happy now, she suffered remorse for six months after entrance

This was at a seance last April, and she

The councillor has been privileged with communications from various other notable persons, some of whom have been exceedingly complimentary. The spirit of Lord Clive annunced itself on the 4th of September, his careful having kindle and the specific control of the specific contro dove for John' (the councillor's son, we bresume), and to advise his father to make a soldier of him, and he would be buried in Westminster Abbey. In reply to a ques in put by the councillor about a peculiar sensation he felt in his legs, the Field Marshal said, "it is spirits; the room is full of them." An old sweetheart of "J. B.'s" also came from the Mention is made of "spheres." These are the different stages which are said to exist in the spirit world, and for information concerning which the councillor is mainly indebted to the spirit of the late Rev. Dr. B——. They petter, and so on to the ninth, where "all is oly and good;" but there are thousands more, depends upon the lives we live here. But the spirit of the councillor's mother gave him the gratifying assurance that everybody should "You had better turn over a new leaf and behave yourself, for this is a queer place. Good bye!" A—— B—— states that he sojourns in the fourth sphere, which must, after all, be a pretty decent location, as it is adorned with

The spirits, however, do not always confine themselves to revelations, warnings, and friendly admonitions. They seem disposed occasionally to manifest their presence in rather an uproarious way. The councillor and a celebrated seance in his own house on of Scots had made a clean breast of it, the glost of a certain R—B—, that there will be no difficulty in recognizing, is heard to knock. "What do you want?" he asked "Put out the gas," says he, "and I will try to move the table." The ghost was as good as its word; for Mr. J. B. relates the table-moving scene as follows: "The gas was lowered till pearly out and then the table was down. nearly out, and then the table was drawn along the floor. A handkerchief held by my

of the revelations that are emoduled in the singular narrative before us.

The Councillor himself is sorely puzzled what to make of them. Discredit the phenomena he cannot, but how to account for them—there is the rub! He is too cautious at the phenomena he cannot, but have reprinted lates to their says, "are the results of power exerted by the spirits of the deceased I don't believe, yet the cause is to me inexplicable." His perplexity is manifestly increased by the discovery that the eating of eggs by the medium causes the "spirits" to come out in greater force. His son, a boy of fourteen years, who is the prin-

WILL EFFECTUALLY CURE DYSPEPSIA,

FAUNDACE. Chronic or Nervous Debility, Diseases of the Kidneys, and all Diseases

THEY CONTAIN NO ALCOHOL OR BAD WHISKEY!

Induced by the extensive sale and universal popularity of Hecfland's German Bitters (purely vegetable), hests of ignorent Quacks and unscrupulous adventures have opened upon suffering humanity the floodgates of Nostrums in the shape of poor whiskey, yiley compounded with injurious drugs, and christened Tonics, Stemachics, and Bitters.

Beware of the innumerable array of Alcoholic preparations in plethoric bottles and big bellied kegs, under the modest appellation of Bitters; which, instead of curing, only aggravate disease, and leave the disappointed sufferer in deepair.

Do you want energy? Do you want to sleep well? Do you want a brisk and vigorous feeling? If you do, use Hoofland's German Bitters.

dice by proper tests, and for encouragement to try
debility. The use of three bottles of these Bitters, at the beginning of the present year, was followed by evident relief, and restoration to a degree of bodily and mental viger which I had not felt for six months before, and had alraost despaired of regaining. I therefore thank God and my friend for directing me to the use of them.

J. NEWTON BROWN.

PHILADELPHIA, June 23, 1861. Particular Notice.

friends in the army to the fact that "HOOFLAND'S German Bitters" will cure nine-teaths of the diseases induced by exposures and privations incident to camp life. In the lists, published almes' daily in the newspapers, on the arrival of the sick, it will be noticed that a very large proportion are suffering from debility. Every case of that kind can be readily cured by Hoofland's German Bitters. Diseases resulting from disorders of the digostive organs are speedily removed. We have no hesitation in stating that, if these Bitters were feely used among our soldiers, hundreds of lives might be saved that otherwise will be lost.

We call particular attention to the following remarkable and well authenticated cure of one of the mation's heroes, whose life, to use his own language "has been saved by the Bitters."
